Col. Roosevelt Appeals to U. S. to Fulfill Promise to Aliens in Philadelphia Speech.

DISCUSSES PREPAREDNESS AND MILITARY TRAINING

Former President Addresses Conference of National Americanization Committee.

PHILADELPHIA, January 21.—The necessity of training Americans born in this country as well as aliens who have come here or will come in the future in the highest ideals of American citizenship was dwelt upon by speakers at an all-day conference here yesterday under the auspices of the National Americanization committee. Officials of the federal bureaus of education and immigration, state officials, sociologists and others interested in time of New York (ity is to the population of New York), and finally and most important of all, a system of universal military training in times of peace which shall be a basis for whatever service, military or civil, is needed in time of war.

"As regards the navy, the important point is to remember that it should be built up now and not ten years hence, and not by a plan that will only find fruition ten years hence. Even five years hence may be too late.

"But I do not believe in a large regular army. The proposed continual army is an absurdity. If passed, it may for a year or two prove a partially successful rival to the National Guard and attract some young men. But serlous-minded men who have their way to make in the world cannot and ought not go into any such army, which proposes to penalize patriotism by making the patriotic man ficials of the federal bureaus of education and immigration, state officials, sociologists and others interested in the problems of the immigrants were among the speakers at the conference, which was brought to a close by a mass meeting last night, at which former President Roosevelt was the principal speaker. Every seat in the operations where the meeting was held was occupied when Alba B. Jonson, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, introduced Col. Roosevelt.

Under the theme of "Fear God and Take Your Own Part," Col. Roosevelt touched a wide range of discussion. He appealed to America to fulfill her promises of liberty and equal opporunity to the people who come from foreign lands, declaring that to be the first essential in transforming them into desirable citizens, Germany had, he said, proved that an autocratic government can take care of its working chases and its business in terests at the same time, and the aim of ors.

An efficient national government system is the best instrument of industrial and military preparedness, the speaker said, and all the forces to such an end must be under the regulation of a single power, the power of the national government. There is nothing in the country to which to point as an example of military efficiency, he said, and as regards the navy, America was in good shape seven years ago, but since then Germany, England and Japan have gone ahead very fast, while we at first stopped going ahead and for the last three years have been going backward. Col. Roosevelt praised California for what he called a genuine and successful effort to secure industrial prosperity and also that approximate reasonable division of the results of prosperity which can only come when there is both an aroused social conscience and a common-sense translation by practical men of that aroused social conscience into efficient legislative and administrative action.

Cil Production in 1915.

"Petroleum production in 1915 unloubtedly was greater during the first few months of the year than in the corresponding period of 1914. This was particularly true of the grades of crude particularly true of the grades of crude oil from which our supplies of gasoline are obtained. For instance, the Cushing pool in Oklahoma, producing a crude oil especially adapted to the making of gasoline, rose to a production of 300,000 barrels a day in the spring of 1915. The market was glutted with crude oil of this grade, and the price of Cushing oil fell as low as 26 cents a barrel. As a result of the immense surplus of the raw material from which gasoline is made, the price of gasoline was correspondingly low. It sold down to 5 cents a gallon in tank car lots, and 8 cents a gallon, tank wagon deplivery.

"In the early summer enormous production of Cushing, which had depressed both crude oil and refined oil prices throughout the United States east of the Rockles, began to wane. In a few months the yield of this pool had declined by 200,000 barrels a day. Coincident with this falling off in output of the raw material came an unprecendented demand terial came an unprecendented demand for gasoline. Marketers reported an in-crease of from 50 per cent to 75 per cent in the demand for gasoline, as compared

Big Advance in Price.

"At the close of 1915 the anxiety of oil refiners to obtain an adequate supply of crude oil for the manufacture of gasoline had caused such spirited bidding that the price of Cushing crude petroleum, which sold at from 26 cents to 40 cents a barrel in the spring of 1915, had risen to $1.50 a barrel on spot sales, increasing four or five times in cost to the manufacturers of gasoline.
"The injustice in the geological survey's statement is that it considers the year 1915 as a whole and makes no mention of the fact that in the first months of the year there was an immense surplus of light crude oil for gasoline-making, while in the latter months of the year the situation was exactly reversed.

"It would doubless be agreeable to all gasoline consumers to have the price of gasoline remain stationary at a very low level, such as prevailed in 1914 and the early months of 1915, but is there one among them, possessed of ordinary business sense, who would expect the price of the finished product to remain stationary and the early months of 1915, but is there one among them, possessed of ordinary business sense, who would expect the price of the finished product (gasoline) is made was advancing 200 to 400 per cent?

"Another point which the finished product (gasoline) is made was advancing 200 to 400 per cent?

"Another point which the finished product in the southwest of crude petroleum are only now meet in gard prices were depressed in the spring and early summer the oil producers in the fields that yield light crude of the grade gasoline is made from were in many instances barely clerking their expenses. In some instances they were actually losing money.

"In 1913, when light crude oil in the southwest was selling at $1.05 a barrel, gasoline is retailing in Houston at 20 cents a gallon. Today when light crude oil in the southwest was selling at $1.05 a barrel, gasoline is retailing at 19 cents."
